Square space does not offer live chat

Square space does not offer live chat. They are hiding it by saying they are experiencing long wait times for the chat, but the site does not offer you to wait, you just submit a request, which is the same as submitting an email. Waste of money, I chose them for their live chat.

After receiving a bill to renew my site...

After receiving a bill to renew my site for 144.00. square space deducts 276.00 out of my AMX. they have no customer service and no phone to reach out to other than email, after sending several emails I received no reply; so I had American Express dispute the charges... now I receive an email threatening to delete my site if I go ahead with this dispute. the worst..

I would never use this company

I would never use this company, whatever they do. Something with websites that's all i know because I skip the ad's as soon as i hear the words SQUAREspace. "Sponsored by SQUAREspace, SQUAREspAce is an online platform.... skip".

They advertise soo much that i now just hate the whole company and name, and would never ever tell somebody about this company. Besides who ever thought of the idea that disrupting someones day with a commercial would let me like the product.

Besides if i read the comments it seems like they spend too much on ads, and sponsorships, instead of customer support.

Good to know my hatred towards this company is well deserved
